- On Monday, UDM leader Bantu Holomisa asked Parliament's Joint Standing Committee on Intelligence (JSCI) to investigate claims of judicial corruption contained in a report "purportedly drafted by Ms Thembisile Majola, the recently resigned director-general of the State Security Agency".
- The Office of the Inspector-General of Intelligence (OIGI) said its preliminary investigation into the report confirmed it was "not an official product of the [SSA] or any of the intelligence

- Instead, a footnote in the report stated it was written by a man identified as its primary "informant": Aids denialist advocate Anthony Brink who confirmed he was the author of the report.

The State Security Agency (SSA) has distanced itself from a so-called "intelligence report" on alleged judicial corruption.

This as a well-known Aids denialist confirmed he was the document's author and said he had engaged with Western Cape Judge President John Hlophe over certain of its claims.
